

Come! Sit! Stay!

The Fibro Majestic, Blue Mountains

While back we scheduled a review for a 'pet friendly' location in the Blue Mountains. Despite having rave reviews (not independently written) the property was just not suitable for our readers, so we skipped it. This time, we did our homework and came up with a fabulous place to stay in Katoomba. It has style, comfort, fenced-in location away from busy roads and a beautiful amenity—but don't worry, it'll probably be easy to book because the worst part of it is that the real estate agent that handles the Fibro Majestic (www.fibromajestic.com) seems to hardly bother returning calls or answering questions. So if you can actually get a booking confirmed and get information as to how to find it and other vital clues, you'll be laughing!

The Lounge room of the Fibro Majestic

We won't bore you with the dramas involved in making sure that we actually had the property for a weekend after Anzac Day, but only a couple of hours before we had to make the hour and a half trek with the critters, were we able to reach the agent by mobile and got directions and instructions. It was only an hour before sunset when we got the key and alarm instructions. And after picking up with a couple of bottles of wine from Blaxland Liquors on the way, we entered a side door to The Twilight Zone!

The Fibro Majestic is a 1930s style bungalow tucked away behind a blue picket fence and hidden from the street by trees. Many treasures are contained within and only a moment after entering the three-bedroom cottage, the chorus of WOWs began. It was like stepping back into another era. And any stress was left at the door with the shoes.

Just inside, an immaculately restored, working gramophone with brass bell greeted us. The dark red lounge room had art deco furniture, a snazzy bar area and a trove of old photos and art among the kitch furnishings. The Persian carpet was a perfect contrast to the fireplace, already loaded with logs and kindling, ready to roar! Dropping the bags in the back bedroom with its gorgeous curtains and inviting old style double bed, more treasures popped into view. An ancient bakelite radio nestled next to an equally aged 30s Candlestick phone with detachable earpiece and dial on the bottom of the mouthpiece—and it worked!!

Blue Mountains Sunset

Feline Greenies®

Cleans Teeth!
Freshens Breath!

the original smart-treat[®]
green

Salmon

Chicken

Liver

Ocean Fish

4 delicious flavours – Ocean Fish, Salmon, Chicken & Liver

Available from your vet and all good pet stores
Call 1800 032 139 for your nearest stockist

Feline Greenies® is a registered trademark of S&M NuTec, LLC.

